- ✦ Rapid improvement of English

TOEFL iBT

IEP classes are designed to help students master academic English, prepare to take the TOEFL iBT required for admission to degree programs at the University and succeed in post-secondary study at the University. Students applying to graduate programs may be required to take additional exams such as the GMAT or GRE. Admission into the IEP does not guarantee admission to UL Lafayette.

Testing and Placement

New students take a placement test to determine the appropriate level in which they will enroll. At the end of each session, students are given final exams and their performance in the classes determines if they move on to the next level.

Tuition and Fees

Tuition and fees for one 8-week session amount to approximately $2,000. Tuition and fees include the orientation session, classroom facilities, instructors, academic and college placement advising, regular student assessed fees, insurance, and services of selected campus offices. Tuition and fees for each session must be paid in U.S. dollars by week 2 of classes. Additional costs exist for dependents of students.

Housing and Meals

On-campus housing is available for single students. A non-refundable housing deposit/application fee of $200 is required. Residence hall rooms only can be reserved for those students who apply and pay the required deposit early. Dining on campus is available. Meal plans, with various price ranges, are provided for your selection.

Health Insurance

All F-1 (non-sponsored) students enrolled in IEP are automatically covered by insurance provided by UL Lafayette. The insurance fee is included on the tuition invoice. While enrolled in the IEP, students can take advantage of the health services located on campus. The application packet includes an immunization form, which must be completed and returned to the IEP office before a SEVIS I-20 can be issued.
