Get on Board Day

There's no place like UL Lafayette: Follow the red brick road to Get on Board Day. Get on Board Day is an engagement opportunity for students to benefit from their communities. It was in the quad this year, and I learned much from the different booths. I joined the Pre-Professional Society which looks good on my resume for my future career. That's to get on board day I also found a friendly proactive group to hang out which is the BCM group.

Game Days

Sarah and Emily went to support the UL football team!

UL Lafayette 125th Birthday Bash

We celebrated the 125th Birthday at UL Lafayette. It was celebrated Beside the Edith Garland Dupré Library. There was cupcakes, music, shirts, and a giant cake for this giant university.

Career Fair

Local, state, national, and international employers have regularly utilized these events to recruit UL Lafayette students and alumni. Participants (students) have the opportunity to personally meet recruiters from diverse companies and to network with returning alumni. I enjoyed the career fair even though I didn't get to see a booth related to my career choice. I got to learn so much information about the different booths.

1. Me and Aylina were talking about studying abroad, which allows me to different parts of the world that counts toward credits
2. The picture in the lower right, I learned that the guy on the right knows how to deal with being pepper sprayed and the guy on the left taught me how a taser works
3. The picture on the top right is me and the REAL DJ Khaled's "Another one" his famous line.

Diverse Bracelets

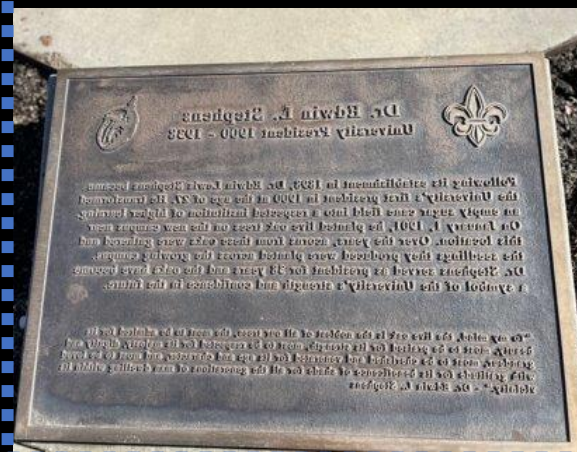

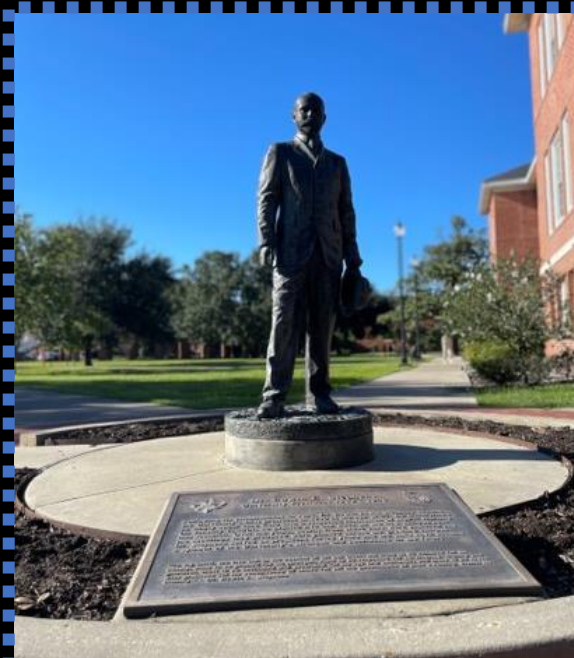

In our UNIV 100 class, each group made diverse Bracelets based on a series of questions on how diverse are our personal groups. Each color shown stand for a different race and on the pictures of the left.

Meet The President

The University's first president? He was one of the nation's youngest, a 27-year-old named Edwin Stephens. He was named the first president of Southwestern Louisiana Industrial Institute SLII (now the University of Louisiana at Lafayette or UL/ULL) on Jan. 23, 1900. SLI, which was created by the Louisiana Legislature in 1898, had no campus, no faculty, and no students. So, he began to build it from the ground up.

In January 1901, Stephens planted oak seedlings on campus. Many flourished, a few remain — at the intersection of University Avenue and Johnston Street — and are known as the Century Oaks. History has nevertheless proven Stephens had the right vision for the fledgling agricultural college.

Hilliard Art Museum

After class, we took a stop by the Hilliard Art Museum and checked out some cool art created by these talented artists. and even went through some interactive art.

I (Amya) even bought a shirt that I wear to this day!

Finding at the Museum

Here are some of the amazing artwork that we found at the museum.

Meeting Paul Hilliard

After our experience at the Hilliard Art Museum, We met up with the statue of Paul Hilliard, a veteran of WWII who donated $5 million for the building's construction.

Breakfast !!

Before going to the library, we met up bright and early for some breakfast. For breakfast, they served grits, eggs, sausage, potatoes, fruits, greek yogurt, and a breakfast bowl mix.

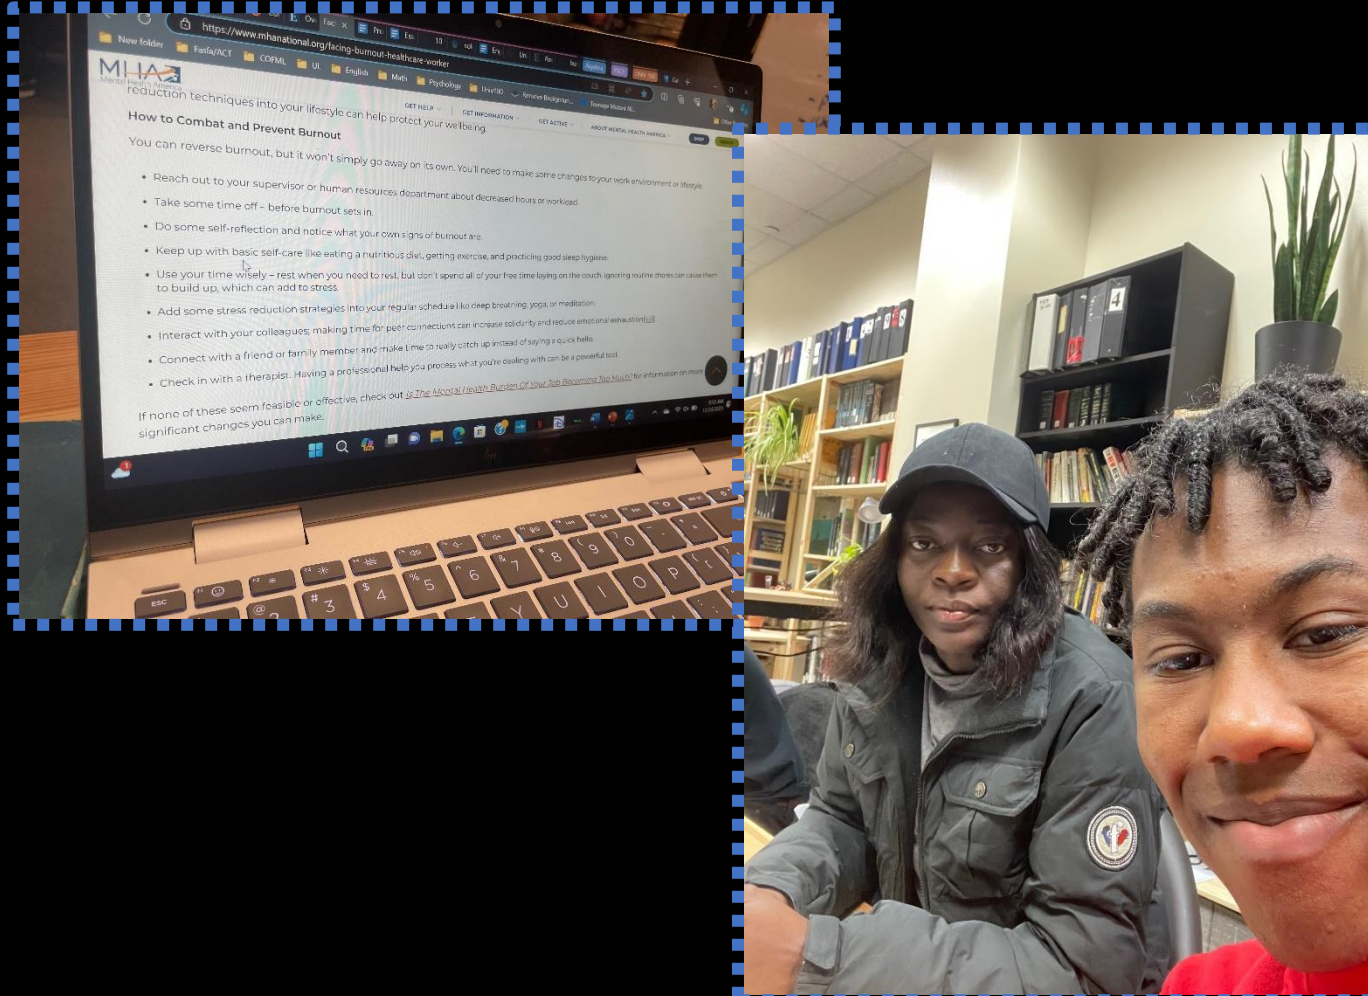

Study With Us!

After breakfast, we headed to the library and did some classwork.

The Writing Lab

Writing lab was a big help with my 6 page essay. I'm writing about a problem solving essay dealing with my major and future occupations and the main problem is burnout in the medical field.
